Assisted Living Technology

As we grow older, even basic tasks can become difficult. By using automation technology we can help improve the ease of day-to-day living for both the elderly and those with all kinds of disabilities.

At Automated Innovation, we use an array of products and design a bespoke solution for each client with the aim of helping individuals to maintain a sense of independence for longer.

Our Assisted Living products aim to help those who need it most perform basic tasks that most of us take for granted, while also providing extra protection and care should something go wrong.

Easy Everyday Living

There are many day-to-day tasks that can be automated with the use of technology. For example, installations can include automated lights, intercoms, automatic doors and voice control.

We also offer essential emergency call systems which can help those who require assistance whilst providing their carers and loved ones with peace of mind.

These systems can be connected directly to loved ones, carers or the emergency services depending on individual requirements.

Enabling Independent Living

There are many products that will allow you to create independent living for longer for your loved ones including:

Lighting: turn on and off your lights using either your smart device or voice control

Intercoms: be able to answer your door, see who is there and unlock it for visitors remotely

Automatic Doors: motorised doors that can be remotely controlled can help with access issues

Voice Control: control devices such as lights, blinds, doors and much more using voice commands

Emergency Call Systems: instantly connect with a loved one or carer with the press of a button
